Whose consent is essential for a new short-term tenancy of a flat? · What should be noted?

For: Private accommodation host

Practical business guidance · Reviewed: 2026-11-22

Applicability: According to the profile and circumstances of the described case.

Alongside the consent form, prepare a plan showing the relevant co-owners and neighbouring plots.

Record and working document

Check whether the majority in your building is determined by the owners' shareholdings.

If there are multiple entrances or any doubt about the adjoining section, request written guidance from the competent authority.

Working example · Whose consent is essential for a new short-term tenancy of a flat

The owner of the flat above the commercial premises wants to start letting it on a short-term basis. Together with the manager, she checks the owners' shares and all the common areas adjoining her flat before obtaining consent.

Specific next steps

1. Check whether the majority in your building is determined by the owners' shareholdings.
2. If there are multiple entrances or any doubt about the adjoining section, request written guidance from the competent authority.
3. Document the application of all conditions before deciding to start letting.

Limits of application

According to the type of building, the dates of application and the transitional provisions.

Sources

Official Gazette · Management and Maintenance of Buildings, OG 152/2024

https://narodne-novine.nn.hr/clanci/sluzbeni/full/2024_12_152_2502.html

Original page

https://adriatrends.hr/poslovni-vodic/en/pitanja/praksa-zakon-najam-granicni-stanovi-dokazi